

A photograph of a modern building's exterior during dusk or night. The building features a light-colored facade with vertical wooden slats on the left side. Two illuminated windows are visible: one on the upper level with a dark frame and a lower level window with a bright yellow glow. Two small, warm-toned lights are mounted on the wall between the windows. To the right, another part of the building is visible, showing a white roofline and a window with a pinkish tint. The sky is a deep blue.
